

Special Issue on Environmental Policy

Call for Papers

Environmental Policy refers to the commitment of an organization to the laws, regulations, and other policy mechanisms concerning environmental issues and sustainability. This policy is directly related to the country's environmental legislation and environmental, environmental management and the environmental situation of the overall country. With the deterioration of environment, the environmental policy can be deliberately taken to direct and oversee human activities and thereby prevent harmful effects on the biophysical environment and natural resources, as well as to make sure that the environment changes do not influence of human's production, life and health.

In this special issue, we invite front-line researchers and authors to submit original research and review articles that explore environmental policy. In this special issue, potential topics include, but are not limited to:

- Environmental law and tax
- Environmental monitor and assessment
- Environmental economy and policy
- Environmental protection
- Environmental management

Authors should read over the journal's Authors' Guidelines carefully before submission. Prospective authors should submit an electronic copy of their complete manuscript through the journal's Paper Submission System.
