

Special Issue on Constitutional Law

Call for Papers

Constitutional law refers to the body of laws and legal principles that govern the structure, powers, and functions of a government, as well as the rights and responsibilities of individuals within a country. It is based on a constitution, which serves as a fundamental legal document outlining the organization and allocation of powers among different branches of government, such as the executive, legislative, and judicial branches. The goal of this special issue is to provide a platform for scientists and academicians all over the world to promote, share, and discuss various new issues and developments in the area of Constitutional Law.

In this special issue, we intend to invite front-line researchers and authors to submit original research and review articles on exploring Constitutional Law. Potential topics include, but are not limited to:

- Constitution
- Legal principles
- Government structure
- Executive branch
- Legislative branch
- Judicial branch
- Fundamental rights
- Constitutional disputes
- Democratic governance
- Rule of law
- Governmental authority

Authors should read over the journal's For Authors carefully before submission. Prospective authors should submit an electronic copy of their complete manuscript through the journal's Paper Submission System.

Please kindly specify the “Special Issue” under your manuscript title. The research field “Special Issue - *Constitutional Law” should be selected during your submission.

Special Issue Timetable:

Submission Deadline	July 30th, 2024
Publication Date	September 2024

Scientific Research
Open Access

Beijing Law Review

ISSN Online: 2159-4635

For further questions or inquiries, please contact Editorial Assistant at papersubmissionmcy@gmail.com

BLR Editorial Office
blr@scirp.org