

Special Issue on Development Economics

Call for Papers

Development economics is a branch of economics that focuses on improving the economies of developing countries. It tries to promote economic growth in such countries by improving factors like health, education, working conditions, domestic and international policies and market conditions.

In this special issue, we intend to invite front-line researchers and authors to submit original research and review articles on exploring Development Economics. Potential topics include, but are not limited to:

- Theories of development economics
- Mercantilist policy
- Economic nationalism
- Economic development and ethnicity
- Imbalances in economic development
- Economic globalization

Authors should read over the journal's For Authors carefully before submission. Prospective authors should submit an electronic copy of their complete manuscript through the journal's Paper Submission System.

Please kindly specify the “Special Issue” under your manuscript title. The research field “Special Issue - Development Economics” should be selected during your submission.

Special Issue Timetable:

Submission Deadline	August 31st, 2016
Publication Date	October 2016

Guest Editor:

For further questions or inquiries, please contact Editorial Assistant at me@scirp.org.