

Special Issue on Natural Resource Management

Call for Papers

Natural resource management (NRM) refers to the management of natural resources such as land, water, soil, and organism, and it specifically focuses on a scientific and technical understanding of resources and ecology and the life-supporting capacity of those resources. The NRM is designed with the concept of sustainable development for the quality of life for both present and future generations.

The stakeholder analysis has been incorporated into nature resource management. And there were many approaches are designed to manage the nature resource, such as top-down or command and control, regional or community based NRM, adaptive management, precautionary approach, integrated approach (INRM).

The goal of this special issue is to provide a platform for scientists and academicians all over the world to promote, share, and discuss various new issues and developments in the area of natural resource management.

In this special issue, we intend to invite front-line researchers and authors to submit original researches and review articles on exploring natural resource management. Potential topics include, but are not limited to:

- Land use planning/land management
- Water management
- Biodiversity conservation
- Forest management
- Mining management
- Stakeholder analysis about the NRM
- Natural resource management approaches

Authors should read over the journal's Authors' Guidelines carefully before submission. Prospective authors should submit an electronic copy of their complete manuscript through the journal's Paper Submission System.

Please kindly notice that the "Special Issue" under your manuscript title is supposed to be specified and the research field "Special Issue - Natural Resource Management" should be chosen during your submission.

According to the following timetable:

Manuscript Due	January 16th, 2014
Publication Date	March 2014

Guest Editor:

Dr. Mujib ur Rehman

Institute of Development Studies (IDS), Canada

For further questions or inquiries

Please contact Editorial Assistant at nr@scirp.org