

Special Issue on Language and Communication

Call for Papers

Language communication refers to the communication realized by using verbal symbols as the carrier, which mainly includes oral communication, written communication and electronic communication. The goal of this special issue is to provide a platform for scientists and academicians all over the world to promote, share, and discuss various new issues and developments in the area of Language and Communication.

In this special issue, we intend to invite front-line researchers and authors to submit original research and review articles on exploring Language and Communication. Potential topics include, but are not limited to:

- Oral communication
- Written communication
- Communication skills and barriers
- Language, speech and communication
- Language and intercultural communication
- Language, thought, and communication
- Models and tools for language learning
- Nonverbal communication and body language

Authors should read over the journal's For Authors carefully before submission. Prospective authors should submit an electronic copy of their complete manuscript through the journal's Paper Submission System.

Please kindly specify the “Special Issue” under your manuscript title. The research field “Special Issue - Language and Communication” should be selected during your submission.
