

Special Issue on Nursing Management

Call for Papers

Nursing Management Research refers to the systematic inquiry and investigation into the principles, theories, and practices that govern the effective and efficient administration of nursing services. It encompasses a wide range of studies focused on understanding and improving the organization, delivery, and evaluation of nursing care in diverse healthcare settings. The goal of this special issue is to provide a platform for scientists and academicians all over the world to promote, share, and discuss various new issues and developments in this area of Nursing Management.

In this special issue, we invite front-line researchers and authors to submit original research and review articles that explore Nursing Management. In this special issue, potential topics include, but are not limited to:

- Organizational Theory and Structure
- Quality Improvement and Patient Safety
- Human Resource Management
- Informatics and Technology in Nursing Management
- Financial and Economic Aspects of Nursing
- Evidence-Based Practice in Nursing Management

Authors should read over the journal's For Authors carefully before submission. Prospective authors should submit an electronic copy of their complete manuscript through the journal's Paper Submission System.

Please kindly specify the “Special Issue” under your manuscript title. The research field “Special Issue –Nursing Management” should be selected during your submission.
