Special Issue on Taxation Research

Call for Papers

Taxation Research is an academic field that delves into the analysis and evaluation of tax systems, policies, and their impact on both the economy and individuals. It encompasses the study of tax structure, compliance, enforcement, and the effects of various taxes on economic behavior. Researchers in this field examine how taxation influences decision-making for businesses and individuals, addresses income redistribution, and funds public services. The goal is to derive insights that can inform the development of fair, efficient, and effective tax policies.

In this special issue, we intend to invite front-line researchers and authors to submit original research and review articles on Taxation Research. Potential topics include, but are not limited to

- Comparative tax systems
- Corporate taxation
- International taxation
- Personal income taxation
- Taxation of business entities
- Indirect taxes and consumption taxes
- Tax compliance and enforcement
- Tax planning
- Tax economics
- Taxation of financial instruments
- Public finance and tax policy
- Tax reform
- Tax accounting

Authors should read over the journal's For Authors carefully before submission. Prospective authors should submit an electronic copy of their complete manuscript through the journal's Paper Submission System.
